

Heterogeneously catalyzed reactive distillation in the suspension mode

Abstract

Process for carrying out a reactive distillation in the presence of a heterogeneous catalyst which is suspended as disperse phase in the liquid, wherein part of the catalyst-containing suspension is continuously discharged from the column and is treated in a work-up stage and at least part of the work-up catalyst is returned to the column.